Society Folk Become Active In Washington

Mrs. Harding Much Entertained: Tea With Mrs. Wilson and Luncheon Among Affairs in Her Honor

Brilliant Ball a Feature

Secretary and Mrs. Houston Give Dance for 700 Guests at Rauscher's

Special Dispatch to The Tribune
WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—The opening of Congress always makes a difference in Washington society, but this season it brought a perfect flurry of excitement and interesting incidents, the President-elect as a member of the Senate coming on with other Senators for the opening and, of course, Mrs. Harding came with him. There was the visit of Mrs. Harding to Mrs. Wilson at the White House, the luncheon for Mrs. Harding at the Senate Office Building, with Senators' wives as hostesses; the ball which the Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Meredith gave Wednesday night, and an increasing number of debutante entertainments and dinner parties of an official or semi-official nature.

Mrs. Harding's visit to Mrs. Wilson at the White House Monday afternoon was of a decidedly friendly nature, the two meeting over a cup of tea in the Red Room and discussing White House affairs for two hours. The Vice-President and Mrs. Marshall called upon the President and Mrs. Wilson as soon as they arrived in Washington.

It was the luncheon in the Senate Office Building Tuesday, with Mrs. Harding as guest of honor, that proved the most joyous feature of the visit. The luncheon was the first meeting of the Senate Women's Circle, which held Tuesday morning meetings for sewing and knitting all during the war, a buffet luncheon following the work, with a committee furnishing the refreshments. The same informal plan was carried out for Mrs. Harding, Mrs. Marshall, wife of the Vice-President, who has held the circle together, calling upon the women to come as guests. It also fell to Mrs. Marshall's lot to furnish folk for her part of the refreshments. Mrs. Henry F. Ashurst was the head of the committee and the "cake lady."

Mrs. Marshall Arranges Program
The Vice-President and Mrs. Marshall established themselves in the suite in the New Willard which they have occupied for several winters, and Mrs. Marshall at once arranged her social books for the season.

The first large social affair for the Vice-President and Mrs. Marshall was dinner which Mrs. Thomas F. Walsh gave for them to-night, the Vice-President leaving the company rather early to attend the Gridiron dinner, the first given by the club of newspaper men this season. The Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Edwin T. Meredith will entertain for dinner Thursday for the Vice-President and Mrs. Marshall. The ball which the Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Meredith gave at Rauscher's Wednesday for their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Owen Bohen, of Des Moines, was a beautiful affair, the decorations, especially arranged by the Department of Agriculture florists, being unusually attractive. The Misses Colby, daughters of the Secretary of State and Mrs. Colby, assisted Mrs. Meredith and her daughter in receiving, and among the New York guests were Mr. and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Miss Dorothy James of New York, arrived to pass the week end with Mrs. Colby, but not in time for the ball. The guests numbered about 700.

Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Govin, of New York and Cuba, who bought a residence at 145 Massachusetts Avenue, entertained at their first large dinner party last night.

Dinner for Jussereands
The Minister from Poland joined his wife, Princess Lubomirska, in giving a dinner Tuesday evening for the French Ambassador and Mme. Jusserand, who earlier in the afternoon was the guest of Mrs. Wilson in the Presidential box at the Metropolitan Opera concert. The guests included the Under-Secretary of State, Mr. Norman H. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Hamlin, Mrs. George Cabot Lodge, daughter-in-law of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge; Mrs. Robert Lansing and Mrs. John D. Henderson.

Miss Heloise Meyer, sister of the late George von Lengerke Meyer, President Roosevelt's Secretary of the Navy, arrived in Washington this week to visit her sister-in-law, Mrs. Meyer, and her nephew and niece, Signor Brambilla, counselor and chargé d'affaires of the Italian Embassy, and Signora Brambilla, arriving in time for the latter's regular Friday afternoon at home.

General Nivelle, of the French army, the hero of Verdun, received a hearty welcome in Washington, where he came as the guest of the French Ambassador, M. Jusserand, and to confer medals and decorations on a number of officers. There was a luncheon for the General at the embassy, when the Secretary of War and Mrs. Baker, Major General March, the Under-Secretary of State and Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Robinson Smith, of New York; Miss Loring, of Boston, and French and British military attaches and others were guests.

Mrs. Herbert Slocum, of New York, who came on to visit Mrs. Stephen Le H. Slocum, was the guest of honor at a tea Tuesday, given by her hostess, when the guests included most of the European diplomats and members of official and resident society.

The Countess of Granard arrived in mid-week to visit Mrs. Stephen B. Elkins, who gave a tea Thursday afternoon, when many of her old friends met her.

Mrs. Henry F. Dimock, who returned to her winter home in Washington Tuesday, was joined Friday by Mr. and Mrs. George Wickham, of New York.

Atlantic City Girls Assist in Red Cross Life Saving Exhibit

Young Women of Chelsea Fashionable Colony Don Bathing Suits in Exposition Staged for Teachers

Special Dispatch to The Tribune
ATLANTIC CITY, Dec. 11.—Society maids of the Chelsea winter colony donated bathing suits to-day and assisted in a Red Cross exposition of life saving given by Captain F. C. Mills, of the Red Cross of New York, in the Ambassador Hotel swimming pool. The exhibit was for the benefit of visiting school teachers here for a convention of the Association of Physical Training Instructors and also was witnessed by many invited guests from hotels and cottages.

Members of the Institute for Public Service of New York, are to come here during the coming convention of the National Educational Association for the purpose of studying methods of obtaining swimming pools and instruction in the schools of that city.

War workers' cottages of 1918 may be metamorphosed into smart bungalows for Atlantic City summer sojourners under a plan to float hundreds of the houses from Belcoville, near Mays Landing, across Egg Harbor Bay to Atlantic City. The houses have been purchased for salvage purposes, but it is proposed that special floats be constructed on which the cottages could be brought here and set up to relieve the housing shortage. Real estate men and engineers declare the plan feasible.

Most prominent folk are among the new arrivals from New York and other cities. General Ballington Booth, Salvation Army head arrived at the Traymore for a short visit for a short time.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Bruce, who have a home at Larchmont are newcomers at the Traymore. Mrs. Cornelius Morrison, who has been at Lakewood, came to the Traymore early this week.

Mrs. L. N. Mills and Miss Mills have joined the Chelsea colony at the Ambassador. Miss H. E. Mills arrived later from Canada.

Mrs. W. Ross Donohue arrived at the Shelburne early in the week. General G. H. Carlton, U. S. A., came to the Denby accompanied by Mrs. S. C. Carlton, who is entertaining Miss Anderson, of New York.

Mrs. Marie Juliette Pontier, of New York, is among the new arrivals at the Hotel Chelsea.

Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose McCabe, of White Plains, came to the Chelsea, where they have been joined by F. W. McCabe and Miss Louise McCabe.

Mr. and Mrs. William Stanley Hill are among the visitors from New York at the Strand.

Mrs. Sophia Livingston, of New York, has joined the shore colony at the Breakers.

Meadow Brook Hunt Club Arranges Fox Chases

Meet Is Held From the Country Place of Joseph S. Stevens

Special Dispatch to The Tribune
GARDEN CITY, L. I., Dec. 11.—Preparations are under way at the Garden City Hotel for one of the most brilliant New Year's Eve balls ever held there. Four hundred invitations have been sent out to members of the various colonies of Nassau County. Those who are coming out from town as guests at the various house parties in Garden City, Westbury, Hempstead and other sections will attend the ball.

Not for years have so many people been spending the winter on Long Island and this season, and throughout all this section there is scarcely a vacant house.

The Meadow Brook Hunt Club has arranged an interesting schedule of drag and fox hunts for the remainder of December. They will all start at 11 o'clock. To-day's meet was from the country place of Joseph S. Stevens.

Tuesday it will be from the stable of Harry Payne Whitney, at Wheatley Hills; Thursday, from J. Watson Webb's, and on Saturday from The Kennels.

Arrivals at the Garden City Hotel include Mrs. George L. McConihe, Miss Jean Allen, E. Newell Post, Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Tinsley, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Newton, Mr. and Mrs. Carlston Macy, Mrs. Wallace Shillito, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Park and Dr. and Mrs. P. K. Cavanaugh, New York; Miss L. K. Morse, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Göttinger and Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Seward, Brooklyn.

The Nassau Driving Club will hold its annual dinner Wednesday at the Garden City Hotel.

Miami's First Palm Fete Closes With Dance on Bay Front

Between 3,000 and 4,000 Children March in Baby Parade on the Final Day of the Great Celebration

Special Dispatch to The Tribune
MIAMI, Dec. 11.—The Miami Palm Fete, the first festival of its sort ever held here, closed to-night after five days of merrymaking. The final event was a children's parade, something on the order of a baby parade, but with between 3,000 and 4,000 children in the line of march.

The grand finale of the parade was held at Royal Palm Park where the grandstands, seating 6,000 persons, were all but lost in the tremendous crowds that surrounded them. The fete closed with an outdoor dance on the bay front opposite the park, participated in by thousands. The "Moon Dance," as it was called, was a nightly feature of the festival.

Another major event of the fete was the Flagler Day pageant Wednesday, following a program of field sports, and after it was over William Jennings Bryan and other prominent men addressed the crowds on the subject of the life and work of Mr. Flagler in developing the east coast of the state.

The carnival started on Tuesday with the "Landing of Columbus," a spectacle that was staged on the bay front to represent the second coming of the discoverer of America. On Thursday there was a floral parade, and marine pageant on Biscayne Bay after field sports in the morning. Friday was given up to a program of aquatic sports, a highly interesting feature of which was a bathing suit parade, in which young women, gorgeous in their natural beauty but scantily garbed, were the main attraction.

A feature of the program was the outdoor free-for-all dancing. Lord Waldorf Astor, of London, arrived in Miami a few days ago, accompanied by his brother-in-law, W. H. Langhorne, of Albemarle County, Virginia, and his young nephew, C. L. D. Perkins, of Piedmont Valley, Virginia. The party procured an airplane and flew to Bimini Island, where Lord Astor is at the Bimini Bay Rod and Gun Club.

Henry H. Firth, of Philadelphia, arrived last Sunday and registered at the Breakers Hotel.

Mrs. E. W. Earl and Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Earl, of Edgewater, N. J., and the Princess de Campanole, of Palermo, Italy, are at the Breakers. They were guests a few evenings ago of Mr. and Mrs. Carl G. Fisher, of Indianapolis, at a dinner dance at the Miami Beach Club.

Bookings at the Breakers include: Mr. and Mrs. Edwin A. Falk and Mr. and Mrs. David Bandler, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Melvin T. Bender, of Albany; Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Johnson, of Newark; Mr. and Mrs. George M. Jones, and Miss Jones, of Pittsburgh.
